GFW - continued..

Next on the agenda was students from the University of Northampton to dazzle us with their creative talent.

Fashion at the University of Northampton has become synonymous with creativity, colour and aesthetic finesse and the catwalk show certainly demonstrated this. A fantastic mix of ultra feminine collections contrasted with darker more masculine themes. The all in one catsuit yet again made an appearance; a common shape with this years graduates. Puff ball sleeves, dramatic collars with intricate folds and twists of the fabric and distinguished prints also played an important part.

In strong contrast Craig Fellows gave a ultra girly, almost 1950's housewife themed collection. Bustle skirts with netted underlining bounced up and down the runway and headscarves, neck ties and printed silk shirts all added feminine appeal.
